

Terms and Conditions for hmg.gov.uk/data

Using this website

Access and use by you of this site constitutes your acceptance of these Terms and Conditions. This takes effect from the date on which you first use this website.

Licensing

You are encouraged to use and re-use the information that is available through this site . Unless otherwise specified the information is covered by Crown Copyright and Crown Database Right. This means you can re-use the information freely and flexibly, with only a few conditions. Your ideas remain your own.

You are free

- to copy and distribute the information
- to adapt or add value to the information

You must:

- re-use the information accurately
- acknowledge the copyright and the source of the information

Your data

As a general rule, we want the information shown on this site to be as open and easy to re-use as possible. We therefore ask that we (the Crown) are granted a non-exclusive, irrevocable right to use and pass on all non-personal data that you submit (like your descriptions of your ideas, screenshots of your apps, etc.). This is so that we can place the contents of this site under the same permissive licence (no more restrictive than above).

Your personal data

From time to time, you will be asked to submit personal information about yourself (e.g. name and e-mail address) in order to receive or use services on our website. Such services include e-mail updates, website feedback, or suggesting an idea / application.

By entering your details in the fields requested, you enable the Cabinet Office and its service providers to provide you with the services you select. Any personal information you provide to the Cabinet Office will only be used by us, our agents and service providers, and will not be disclosed unless we are obliged or permitted to by law to do so.

If you post or send offensive, inappropriate or objectionable content anywhere on hmg.gov.uk/data, we may use whatever information about you is available to us to stop such behaviour.

We will hold your personal information on our systems for as long as you use the service you have requested, and remove it in the event that the purpose has been met or when you no longer wish to continue your subscription.

Accessibility statement

This website is run by a team drawn from Cabinet Office, the National Archives and COI. It is our intention that our website is usable and accessible to all users. This website's objective is to conform to the Guidelines for \(UK Government Websites\), which supports Web Content Accessibility Guidelines of the World Wide Web Consortium

Feedback

We very much welcome, and actively encourage your feedback on this site. The site is being developed in a phased approach so we encourage you to provide feedback to ensure that future iterations meet your needs. This project is seen very much as a collaborative one between government and yourselves so do get in touch and help shape future direction.

We will not pass on any of your personal information when dealing with your enquiry, unless you have given us permission to do so. Once we have replied to you, we keep a record of your message for audit purposes.

The Data Protection Act

Under the Data Protection Act 1998, we have a legal duty to protect any information we collect from you. We use leading technologies and encryption software to safeguard your data, and keep strict security standards to prevent any unauthorised access to it.

We will not pass on your personal details to any third party.

If you wish to see our records of any correspondence you have sent to us, or if you have a query or complaint about this privacy policy or about the site, you can contact us by using the contact us form.

Changes to this privacy policy

If this privacy policy changes in any way, we will place an updated version on this page. Regularly reviewing this page ensures you are always aware of what information we collect, how we use it and under what circumstances, if any, we will share it with other parties.